

Volunteers needed for an Intergenerational Project

Stories

Connecting Generations

Would you like to share stories from your life with a Kent State University design student?

In this project, you would take part in a series of conversations with Kent State University design students. The students will then create graphic designs/art that visually communicate the stories you have shared.

At the end of the project, the designs that are based on the stories you have shared will be displayed at Kent State University and in other local exhibits.

Participation is voluntary. Conversations will take place in January and February 2023, via phone or video call.

We hope that these designs that visually communicate your life stories will inspire those in our surrounding communities.

If you would like to participate, please contact:

Manacy Pai, Dept. of Sociology, Kent State University, 330-672-3405

Project co-founders (Kent State University)

Manacy Pai • Sociology • mpai@kent.edu, 330-672-3405

Jessica Barness • Visual Communication Design • jbarness@kent.edu, 330-672-8287